Complementary and Alternative Health Care Client Bill of Rights

Rhode Island State Law requires that all clients and alternative medicine practitioners understand and accept the following form.

Name of Practitioner and Location:

Cathy A. Picard N.D.
Nature Cures Clinic
250 Eddie Dowling Highway Unit 4
North Smithfield, RI 02896

Experience and Training:

Cathy Picard is a Naturopathic Physician who graduated from The National College of Naturopathic Medicine, a nationally and regionally accredited medical school. Naturopathic medicine is a unique profession in that it integrates the training and knowledge of conventional medicine into a treatment model based on the laws of nature. After earning a bachelors degree and completing pre-med requirements, the student attends one of six accredited four year naturopathic medical schools in North America. The curriculum includes courses in basic sciences such as anatomy, physiology, biochemistry and pathology as well as all of the clinical sciences such as cardiology, endocrinology, gynecology, radiology etc. The curriculum also includes three years of clinical skills internship under the tutelage and supervision of licensed doctors. The training includes the study of homeopathy, clinical nutrition, botanical medicine, hydrotherapy, physical medicine, counseling and holistic medical theory. Using this knowledge and methodology, the naturopathic physician works with patients to restore health from the inside out, without the use of harmful drugs or needless surgeries. Naturopathic physicians often find that conditions that do not respond to conventional medical treatment are effectively remedied using natural means.

Cathy Picard is a licensed Naturopathic physician in the states of Vermont and Oregon. Rhode Island does not currently have a licensing law regarding the practice of Naturopathic medicine. This is largely due to strong opposition from unlicensable alternative health care providers who fear the impact such a law would have on their business. Because of this lack of legislation, the scope of Naturopathic practice is limited and much of what Naturopathic physicians are trained to do is curtailed. At this time, the Rhode Island Association of Naturopathic Physicians is in the process of creating standards of practice in accordance with direction from the Rhode Island Department of Health. It is our sincere hope that the future will see Rhode Island as a state that acknowledges the profession of Naturopathic Medicine as practiced by fully trained and board certified practitioners. This would likely lead to an influx of licensed naturopathic physicians to the state of Rhode Island and safe healthcare alternatives for its residents. If you are interested in supporting licensing efforts, please speak with Dr. Picard or visit www.naturopathic.org for more information.

In accordance with Rhode Island state law I must provide you with the following:
